

Items Left at the Wall

Thirty years ago, on Veterans Day 1982, a memorial was dedicated in Washington D.C. and it changed the way people looked at Vietnam Veterans. The Wall, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, was as controversial as the Vietnam War itself. But once the first panel was placed into the ground, everyone understood the power that lived in the Wall, the importance of the Names on the Wall, and the impact on veterans and families who visit the Wall.

Vietnam veteran John Devitt of Stockton, California, attended the 1982 dedication ceremonies of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. Recognizing what he saw as the healing nature of the Wall, he vowed to make a transportable version of the Wall, a "Moving Wall," so those not able to travel to Washington, D.C. would be able to see and touch the names of friends or loved ones in their own home town.

The Moving Wall visited Burlington in 1999 for eight days. Items that were left at the Moving Wall will be displayed for the very first time on Veterans Day, Sunday November 11, 2012, after our 9am ceremony.

The "Items Left at the Wall" display will take place on the 2nd floor, Human Services Building, 61 Center Street.

The display cases were provided by Bob Rottenberg, of Longs Jewelers, at 60A South Ave. here in Burlington.

50th Anniversary

2012 also holds special significance to Vietnam veterans because it marks the beginning of the 50th anniversary of the Vietnam War. It was 50 years ago, 1962, when U.S. Army pilots on dozens of helicopters transported South Vietnamese troops into the jungles outside Saigon for a raid against enemy forces. It was one of America's first major operations in Vietnam and another turning point in what would become one of our longest wars.

Light refreshments served after the ceremony at the Human Services Building followed by a collation at the American Legion, Winn Street. Everyone is invited to attend.
